

An aerial photograph of a road intersection. A road runs horizontally across the middle, with a red dashed line indicating a stop line. A road branches off to the right, and another branches off to the left. A house with the number 34 is visible in the bottom left. Three text boxes with red arrows point to specific locations: one at the top right points to a location on the right-branching road, one in the middle left points to the intersection area, and one in the bottom left points to a location on the left-branching road.
