An aerial perspective of a park design. A wide, light-colored gravel path winds through the landscape. On the left, a set of concrete stairs with a green metal railing leads up a grassy slope. The path is bordered by dense green shrubs and numerous mature trees with thick canopies. Several people are depicted: some walking on the path, others sitting on a bench, and a few standing near a small structure in the background. A tall, slender white lamppost stands near the path. The overall scene is lush and green, suggesting a well-maintained urban park.
